RATES RAISED 25 PER CENT.

War Between Bankers and the Express Companies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A large increase in the rates for transporting money by express went into effect to-day. This increase is said to average 25 per cent. between points east of Chicago, and even more to points west of that place. This increase of rates is regarded as another blow in the warfare between the express companies and the banks.

The banks are endeavoring to force the express companies to lower their rates, and it is said, will be carried to Congress by the banks. This conflict was precipitated last winter, when the companies raised the rates on money shipped from bank to bank.

The State Bank Association have prepared bills, which, it is stated, will be introduced into Congress, next month, placing the express companies under the provisions of the interstate-commerce act as common carriers. The banks are endeavoring to perfect a system which shall make the bank draft supplement the money order. It will require co-operation between the several State associations and the establishment of State clearing houses to accomplish this.

The banks are sending money by registered mail and insuring the registered packages, and from as far away as Buffalo messengers are sent to New York with satchels full of greenbacks to be delivered to city banks in order to meet drafts.

DESERTED THEIR FAMILIES.

Two Nebraska Politicians Elope with Eighteen-Year-Old Girls.

WAVERLY, Neb., Nov. 1.—Dr. George McCandless and E. R. Vining, prominent Nebraska politicians, have eloped with Misses Alice Miller and Margaret Ward. The girls are eighteen years old and connected with the first families of this community. Tuesday Miss Miller left home, saying she was going to visit friends in Lincoln. Dr. McCandless left Waverly about the same time. He told his family that he would be back yesterday morning. Miss Miller did not visit her friends; the doctor did not return as agreed. The register of a Lincoln Hotel showed the following entry: "G. A. McCandless and E. R. Vining, who left Waverly yesterday morning. The couple departed left ostensibly for Arizona. Both men have families."

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Certain dispatches in the United States press regarding the behavior of the Canadian troops at Fort Canby, at Fort Canby, where Captain Constantine and his squad are stationed, there is no dispute as to the boundary line, as it is fixed by the treaty and is the fourteenth meridian. The mounted police which reached Fort Canby in July, was sent at the request of Americans as well as Canadians. For every Canadian, the Dominion government has sent a force of twenty-three men to protect the lives and property of all the people there.

Palaces Rendered Uninhabitable.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Special dispatches received here from Rome say that two houses here as a result of the earthquake shook this morning and it is reported that several persons were injured. In addition, four palaces and the Bank of Italy are said to have been rendered uninhabitable and the Palazzo Odescalchi and five other palaces are said to be seriously injured. The Vatican buildings, the Quirinal, the main barracks of the Swiss guard at the Vatican are also reported to have sustained some damage.

Another dispatch from Rome says: There is no truth in the report that serious damage was done here by the earthquake. Several houses were slightly cracked, a few chimneys fell and the walls of the barracks of the Swiss guard at the Vatican were slightly cracked. This is about all the damage done.

NO MORE TESTIMONY

ANOTHER GREAT SURPRISE IN THE SENSATIONAL HOLMES TRIAL.

Attorneys for the Defense Announce They Will Submit Their Case Without Introducing Evidence.

TRIAL TO CLOSE TO-NIGHT

ARGUMENTS AND THE JUDGE'S CHARGE TO BE MADE TO-DAY.

And the Verdict Likely to Be Rendered in Time for Announcement in the Sunday Journal.

GEORGIANA YOKE RECALLED

RE-CROSS-EXAMINED REGARDING HER MARRIAGE TO HOLMES.

How She Was Deceived by the Architect—Indianaapolis and Irvington Witnesses Shut Out.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—To-morrow night the world will probably know whether or not Holmes will hang. Incidentally, Holmes, who is not now a part of the world, but a mere shrunken figure, with a number, a cage, and all men's enmity, will himself know. Apart from this, a small army of exhausted men—lawyers, court officials and newspaper reporters—will offer up thanks for the termination of, in many respects, the most extraordinary case ever tried since Lady Justice bandaged up her eyes and started in business.

When the trial began, last Monday, everybody anticipated a siege of at least two weeks, but yesterday the case took one sudden turn and to-day another which will lead to a swift conclusion. The decision of Judge Arnold that no testimony would be admitted other than that bearing directly on the murder of Benjamin F. Pletzel had the effect of keeping out a group of gruesome exhibits and silencing about thirty witnesses brought here from Canada, New England, Indiana and Chicago, and supported for six days at the Commonwealth's expense. It prevented the offering in evidence of the moldered bones of the boy, Howard Pletzel; the stove in which he was burned; the clothes the little fellow wore when he had a body to put inside them; and the toys he played with and the trunk in which his mother carried out the lives of the girls—Alice and Nellie. Besides, it put a quietus on detective Geyer, whose detailed narrative of his travels over the country in a successful search for evidences of Holmes's destructive movements would have made a thrilling tale. District Attorney Graham thought it had as hard a job to get this evidence in, but the law was against him, and the defense scored his first and probably its last victory. When he found himself bested, he said he would close his case this morning, and he kept his word. He did not even exhibit the skull of Pletzel, though disappointed a lot of people who love to revel in the horrible.

A BLUFF OR A LAST CARD?

"That is our case," said scarcely fallen from the lips of the Commonwealth's prosecutor before the counsel for the defense had calmly arisen and made what many persons characterized as "a bold bluff." They confidently told the court that the Commonwealth had not made out its case, and asked Judge Arnold to tell the jury so and wind up the trial then and there. District Attorney Graham smiled an official smile and said this was too absurd to answer, but Judge Arnold expressed no opinion other than that the case could have been decided by the defense's statement that they wanted time to find out what the defense was going to be, because they had been so busy listening to the evidence against them they had not had a chance to prepare an answer to it. The court was not very anxious to create any further delay, but finally suspended business and gave the attorneys an hour's talk with Holmes. This over, they came back to court and pleaded everybody, except the morbid mob peering over one another's heads in the back of the room, by declaring that they would call no witnesses, but submit the case on argument alone.

Then counsel began to-morrow morning, and the lawyers said no opinion. It was his whom Holmes called on last Monday when he dismissed his lawyers, Mr. Moon.

There is an impression that lawyer R. O. Moon will do the talking for the defense, and his forensic ability is of no mean order. It was he whom Holmes called on last Monday when he dismissed his lawyers, Mr. Moon.

Declining the task through lack of time for preparation, he admitted being familiar with the main facts, and will be well qualified to address the jury.

There was no change in Holmes's demeanor to-day, although a keen observer might have perceived a deeper pallor on his cheeks, and in his blue eyes the subdued glare of a wild beast tracked to earth at last. But it needed a keen eye to detect it if it was there.

To-day's proceedings were begun with the recalling of Mrs. Pletzel. Mr. Graham asked her if there were any cuts to the shirt she yesterday identified as her husband's, and she replied that Holmes had taken them from the trunk and destroyed them.

This was the only question. On re-examination Mr. Shoemaker rigidly questioned the unfortunate woman concerning her travels with Holmes and her subsequent arrest for conspiracy. His apparent intention was to show that Mrs. Pletzel had been the controlling influence during the prosecution of the case, and that she carried Holmes about in an attempt to evade arrest.

Trill, but Sverglit, suggested Judge Arnold, "That she led him." This remark was drawn out by a dispute over the relevancy of the cross-examination, which was not pushed further.

Edward H. Case, Chicago agent for the insurance company which Holmes defrauded, testified that he had visited Holmes's house in Philadelphia, and that he had seen the woman who called herself Mrs. Holmes. He identified her picture, in which she was holding an infant, Holmes's child, lovingly against her face.

HOLMES'S BOOK.

John King, of New York, who said he had no business, and looked as if he wished he had, was called.

"What have you been doing the past six months?" he was asked.

"Traveling about the country most of the time."

"Reading the manuscript of the book, 'Holmes's Own Story.'"

"Where was it published?"

"No, the Cheapest street. I had charge of the manuscript and read the proof."

"From whom did you get the manuscript?"

The defense here objected to everything in reference to the book, but were overruled, and the witness answered: "I got some of it from Mr. Shoemaker, Holmes's lawyer, and some from Miss Long, a typewriter in his office, and published just what I received."

Any Long, the typewriter referred to, said she received the manuscript of the book from Mr. Shoemaker. It was in pencil, and the handwriting was unknown to her. A specimen of Holmes's handwriting was shown her and she identified it as the same. Agent Perry, of the insurance company, was recalled to identify Holmes's handwriting.

Detective Geyer, who was also recalled, said he had been sent to Holmes's cell about five weeks ago, to see if there was any poison concealed there. While making search, he came on the manuscript of the book and brought it to the district attorney. He also found in Holmes's cell, besides the manuscript, a letter to John King about the book.

Mr. Leftman was recalled and answered a number of questions about the effects of chloroform.

The Commonwealth offered in evidence the letters, papers, pictures and the Holmes book, and rested its case.

MISS YOKE RECALLED.

She Says She Married Holmes in Denver Jan. 17, 1894.

The defense here asked to recall Miss Yoke for re-cross-examination on the question of her marriage with Holmes, which was brought out in her examination yesterday. She was brought into court and given a seat on the witness stand.

"Mrs. Holmes," began Mr. Rotan, to the woman who calls herself Miss Yoke, "were you ever married to the prisoner?"

"When and where?"

"On Jan. 17, 1894, at Denver, by the Rev. Mr. Wilcox."

"At the time of this marriage did you know of the existence of this Wilmette woman?"

"I believe I did."

"What did Mrs. Holmes say?"

"I don't remember."

"You were sure when you married him that he was not married to the Wilmette woman?"

"I know nothing of the woman."

"Did you know anything of any other marriage?" asked Mr. Graham.

"I had heard of another."

"To whom?"

"I don't know the name."

"Where?"

"Gilmanton, N. H."

"What did Holmes tell his family to excuse his marriage with you, when he had a wife named Gilmanton?"

"I was not with
